Overview

Despite the fact that it is not the most exciting river for rafting in all of Nepal; The Trisuli is a fairly popular river for a number of different reasons. Firstly, it is very close to Kathmandu. Therefore, you can be on the river in a matter of hours if you just want a warm-up when you arrive in Nepal. Secondly, its popularity includes the fact that this river is the longest river in Nepal. And also, the second-longest in South Asia.

In addition, the Trisuli is one of the most popular rivers in Nepal for rafting. Despite the fact that it is not the most exhilarating river in Nepal. It is located in close proximity to a major road, which is a characteristic that, for the most part, works against it. On the other hand, it makes it much easier to access several modes of public transportation. Also, the villages get benefits along the route. As a result of the fact that it provides an experience that is less strenuous and hard than that offered by many of the other rivers. Moreover, it is an option that is more ideal for a day trip with the family than many of the other rivers.
